US TRADE AND WORKING CAPITAL CONFERENCE IN CHICAGO

PROVIDE AN IDEAL FORUM TO US-COMPANIES

Philadelphia, 09.06.2018, 08:10 Time

USPA NEWS - Global Trade Review (GTR) returns to Chicago on June 13 for the second installment of the US Trade & Working Capital Conference. The event once again provides an ideal forum for US companies and financial service providers to meet and discuss the next steps for US trade and the evolution of the trade finance space.

The conference opens with keynote speaker David Hightower, President & Co-founder of The Hightower Report, who discuss the increasing uncertainty surrounding the impact of geopolitics on trade. Highlighting the potential business repercussions posed by trade disruption, increased tariffs, taxation, red tape and changes to procurement practices, a detailed analysis will pinpoint potential at-risk commodity sectors, and address the question: "How seriously should we take the threat of a global trade war?".

Featuring fintech thought leaders, corporate treasury and trade credit experts, trade financiers and companies from across the nation and beyond, 2018's conference utilizes innovative programme formats to drive cross-sector dialogue between audience and speakers, showcase the market's leading innovators and disruptors and provide practical takeaways with interactive workshop breakouts and focused industry case studies.

"US industry has always been at the forefront of innovation, and we're looking forward to bringing the market's finance sector thought leaders together to assess the direction of travel of US trade and the associated financing," says Peter Gubbins, Managing Director at GTR.
